

THE BEES STILL BUZZ

THE COURTEENERS HOLD MASS COMMUNION AT LCCC OLD TRAFFORD CRICKET GROUND FIVE DAYS AFTER THE MANCHESTER BOMBING.

The Courteeners joined forces with fifty thousand fans at The Emirates Old Cricket Ground on Saturday May 27 for their biggest concert yet, just five days after the bombing at Ariana Grande's Manchester Arena show which left 22 dead. In an evening of unbridled emotion, Middleton-born singer Liam Fray opened the night by reading Ryan Williams' poem about the atrocity, The Bees Still Buzz, before leading the throng in song for a spine-tingling version of Oasis' Don't Look Back In Anger.

"Manchester, I wish we'd met under different circumstances," he told them at the end of the show. "I want to say thank you for being so brave. It can't have been easy. This has been the best night of our lives."

Music wins. This issue of Q is dedicated to all those affected by the Manchester Arena bombing.
